JH: The chicken craze is upon us (as Camas noted earlier in this book), and I don't mean the bird flu. In Portland, the tell-tale squawk of a Rhode Island Red popping out a fresh egg in someone's side yard is as common as police sirens in other cities. And why when baby formula is recalled because it contains toxic Chinese drywall, we should be thinking about where our food comes from. Enter Urban Farm Store, a place tailored to the city farmer. Once you have mastered chicken rearing, you can move on to cheese making—they sell kits to get started. Time for a backyard cow pasture?

covet:
vermiculture bins
diy cheese making kits
baby chicks
chick rearing supplies
ladybugs for the garden basic butchering books
geo bins
fruit & vegetable starts for the garden
